

Helseth Propulsion

Helseth AS is a highly specialized propeller manufacturer, operating in modern facilities close to Molde in north-western Norway. Since the first Helseth system was installed in a fishing boat in 1910, our company has gained a profound knowledge of how to produce long-lasting propulsion systems. Today we serve a wide variety of small and medium-sized professional vessels such as cargo and passenger vessels, ferries, tankers, work boats, high-speed vessels, fishing vessels and offshore vessels.

Our core design and manufacturing programme comprises adjustable pitch and controllable pitch propellers with diameters of up to 4400 mm, and up to 4500 kW engine power. Shafts and stern tubes are normally part of the supply.

In addition, we can supply reduction gearboxes with or without clutch.

Our products are characterized by high reliability even with heavy-duty use, lowest possible noise and vibration levels, and a competitive price/feature ratio. In addition, we are dedicated to punctual delivery, extensive installation support and an efficient after-sales service.

Innovation, quality awareness and flexibility in connection with long experience from the harsh conditions of the North Atlantic have made us one of the market leaders in our field.
